

? Have you ever faced a situation where you weren't sure what was the right thing to do? How did you decide what to do?

? What lessons can we learn from this story about facing challenges in our own lives?

? Do the same principles apply to individuals and to the larger community?

Summary Activity:

You are writers for a Jewish newspaper and you decide to interview the midwives for an article in the paper.

Write at least four questions that you would ask in your interview. Think about the atmosphere of the time period, the unique actions of these characters, their motivation, and their backgrounds.

Come up with an interesting title for the article that will be published in the newspaper.
